A DAY AT CAMP MEADE

Ve Editor Visits the Historic Battle-field at Gettysburg.

A SUNDAY WITH COMPANY B.

Location of Camp is Admirable—The Boys Are Happy and Contented—Co. B, Ranked First at the Inspection of 5th Regiment.

SOME SCENES AND INCIDENTS

We had the privilege of spending Sunday, at Camp George G. Meade on the battle field of Gettysburg. It was our first visit to the scene of the world's most sanguinary conflict of arms, in which were engaged for three long days, the flower of both the Northern and Southern armies, each making a desperate struggle for victory, the result of which saved our state from being over run by the confederate forces, which would have meant the desolation and destruction of the whole eastern portion of this Commonwealth, and would in all probability have been prolonged for months or even years. It was the decisive battle of the war, and the last hope of the Southern Confederacy vanished with the defeat of Lee on this field.

The entire lay of the country around Gettysburg is just as if nature had intended it to be a theatre for a great combat of arms. The land being slightly rolling and the area so great, that no army could be too large to be marshalled within its limits.

It was with feelings akin to awe and reverence, that we boarded the trolley, which conveyed us over the historic field to Camp Meade. We passed the National Cemetery that Bivona of the dead where lies the bodies of the greatest heroes of the age.

All over the vast area of territory where men courted death, to preserve the honor of our flag, and protect their homes, beautiful and appropriate monuments have been erected by the several states, in order to cherish the memory of events which occurred on those memorable July days in 1863.

On arriving at the White City, which is located about two miles from the town, our first object was to find Company B, Fifth Regiment Second Brigade N. G. P., which we accomplished without difficulty. Here we were welcomed by Capt. Hugh S. Taylor, who had kindly extended an invitation to be his guest while in camp, and never was a host more lavish in kind attentions than he, everything being done to make our visit one of pleasure, and we assure him of our high appreciation of his hospitality. We went through the quarters to see the boys whom we found putting in the time in various ways, some writing letters, others reading, and quite a number having a nice quiet sleep, and all of them being as contented and happy, as young men could be, they have a great deal of time, which is not taken up by camp duties, during which they can do just about as they please.

For the information of those having friends in Co. B, we will say: the boys are nicely quartered and as comfortable as could be desired, and appear to be enjoying themselves as though on a picnic.

The location of the Camp is admirable, the surrounding beautiful and the view from it extended. If it should rain, the ground is high enough to drain the water from it, so it would be dry and out of the mud.

Capt. Taylor and Lieutenants Garbrick and Gettig are untiring in their efforts for the health and comfort of the Company. They have an abundance of good water, and plenty of wholesome food which is prepared in the best manner by that Prince of cooks Henry Vitalini, the fact is, Company B, has the reputation of having better meals served, than any company in the second Brigade, and the appearance of the boys is an indication that this is correct. The meals are eaten from tables under a large mess tent, and when the tables are spread, they look inviting enough to tempt the appetite of the most fastidious.

A matter, of which all our citizens should be proud is the military standing of the Company, Col. Elder told us after the inspection, that it stood first in the regiment for its neatness, deportment and manner in which arms, accouterments and quarters are kept. Capt. Taylor will not permit men or quarters to be slovenly, he insists upon order and neatness, and the boys take a pride in this themselves, for they are anxious to please the captain, and his wish expressed, has the same effect as if it were a command.

Capt. Taylor took us to regimental headquarters, where we had the pleasure of meeting Col. Elder and his staff, where we spent an hour with these battle scarred veterans. Col. Elder is every inch a soldier, and very popular with his men, and to the civilian is a perfect gentleman. Lieut. Col. John S. Bare has been an acquaintance of many years' standing, and our reception by him was cordial in the extreme. Major Jack West is the kind of a soldier who captures one at first sight, and makes a friend of every one. He is a little modest, however, of his ability as an officer. In his tent we met that old veteran of the National Guard, Major Stayer, surgeon of the Regiment, who has held his position for twenty-five years. We also had a talk with the Chaplain, Rev. J. K. Lloyd, a member of Altoona Conference. His time is fully occupied in looking after the spiritual interests of the members of the regiment. He has a big contract, but is equal to it. He is not only a good man, but an agreeable one, as well. Assistant Surgeon, Dr. R. G. H. Hayes, was very kind to us in various ways, he has a fine hospital tent, thoroughly equipped, and is just in his element when the coats are all filled with patients, who have been over come with the heat. The Adjutant of the Regiment being absent, acting Adjutant Vandalman occupied his post, he is a fine young fellow from Hollidaysburg, good looking, and presents a fine appearance in his soldier clothes.

We are indebted to Regimental Commissary, Boyd A. Musser, for his contribution toward our comfort and pleasure. Boyd has a responsible position in handling the provision of the regiment. His headquarters has the appearance of a wholesale grocery. Quarter Master Sergeant, R. C. Daley is kept busy in his department.

One of the most interesting features of the day, was a call upon Mr. J. B. Solt, who occupies a farm house upon the battle ground, the buildings being located where the fighting was most severe, the dwelling being used as a hospital. Mr. Solt was at one time a resident of Centre Hall and knows every one in this county. He is a man of more than ordinary intelligence, and has a complete knowledge of the battle field. By a strange coincidence the quarters of Co. B, are immediately adjacent to his home, which is a source of gratification to him, for he has a tender place in his heart for anything connected with Centre county.

Accompanied by Captain Taylor, Dr. Hayes and Lieut. Boyd Musser we called at his residence. When he was informed that the writer was from Belleville his kindness knew no bounds. He introduced us to Mrs. Solt and his family, whom it was a great pleasure to meet. We were anxious to see through the house as it had been a target for both sides during the engagement. The doors and around the windows are literally riddled with bullets. We were shown two bullets in a window frame which have escaped the relic hunters, and of course they will now remain, as no one is allowed to carry away anything. The saddest sight, however, and the one which brings moisture to the eyes of every loyal citizen, was one room used by the surgeons for amputations. Its floor are still covered with blood which cannot be effaced, and remembrance of the day when brother met brother, to decide by force of arms whether this glorious Union should be preserved, or destroyed. On the floor is to be distinctly seen the foot-prints of the doctors as they tramped through that precious blood as if it had been water. There was much more seen in the short time we were there, but space forbids further notice.

Mr. Solt's description of the battle and the location of troops was highly interesting and instructive and no visitor should leave the field without seeing him. He is full of original humor and has a heart within him ten times too large for his body, and reminded us forcibly, and is just such a character as was David Har-

It was our fortune to witness the review by Gen. Wiley of the entire Second Brigade. It was an inspiring sight to see the troops to the number of over three thousand march by in review, headed by the bands all massed, making over two hundred pieces. Their manoeuvres and marching showed them to be trained soldiers, and to our unprejudiced minds we decided that the Fifth Regiment made the best appearance of the brigade, and Company B carried away the honors of the regiment.

We were fortunate in seeing General Miller and his staff ride onto the field. They presented a handsome appearance and were superbly mounted. The General furnishes the horses for his staff and

THE LUCKY NUMBER.

No 17785 Held by Harry Otto Wins Him The Clothiers' Piano.

17785 was the lucky number which won the handsome piano chance off by him the Clothier at his store Saturday July 12 and Harry Otto of Belleville was the fortunate individual who held that number.

The drawing took place at noon in the following manner: A little girl was blind-folded and the numbers placed in a box and she drew them out one at a time, until she had drawn fifty in this manner. The 50th was the winning number.

The judges were Edmund Blanchard, of Belleville; James B. Strohm, of Centre Hill, and W. C. Meyer, of Lemont.

Dr. John F. Harter Cannot Recover.

Dr. John F. Harter, of Millheim, former recorder of the county and at present deputy revenue collector for this district, is in Hahnemann hospital in Philadelphia with absolutely no hope of his surviving more than a day or so.

His condition for the past few months has been such as to baffle several of the most skilled physicians of the county and several weeks ago it was announced that he had taken a turn for the better. That was directly after Dr. W. S. Glenn, of State College; had relieved him of a large abscess that had formed on his thigh, but the improvement was only temporary and last week Dr. Glenn took him to Philadelphia, where he underwent an operation Monday morning at 8 o'clock. Dr. Carl Vischer the eminent surgeon, operated and found intestinal cancer. A cure being impossible the sad announcement was then made that the Doctor can live only a day or so.

Two Bad Boys Rob a Blind Store-keeper.

Monday afternoon two boys named Lindsey and Watson, whose ages range from 16 to 18 years, entered the store of blind man James Stine on North Thomas street and while one of them was purchasing a bottle of spruce beer the other slipped behind the counter and stole $3.00 out of the blind man's money drawer. The boys then left the store and Mr. Stine did not discover his loss until he went to make some change later. He told his son Ellis of his loss and the latter started after the boys and finding one succeeded in recovering $1.00 of the stolen money.

Watson lives at Coleville and Lindsey is from Huntingdon.

Picnic Children Fell Into the Lake.

The Lutherans of Lock Haven, had a very enjoyable time at Hecla Park Friday, everyone taking great interest in the festivities of the day. A count of those on the ground revealed that 351 were in attendance.

The pleasures, unfortunately, were marred somewhat by several frights occasioned by children falling into the lake. Those who were given the involuntary baths were John Ruple, son of Rev. D. E. Ruple, a child of Mrs. McGill, and several children who were in a boat. Mrs. McGill jumped into the water after her child. All were rescued without any injury.—Lock Haven Democrat.

Married at Big Run.

Tuesday's Lock Haven Democrat says: Dr. Alex. R. MacKenzie and Miss Virginia K. Orvis, proprietor of the Eclectic institute, both of this city, were united in marriage in Clearfield, Pa., July 12, 1902, by M. S. Blair, of Big Run.

Miss Orvis is the daughter of the late E. E. Orvis and a niece of the late Judge Orvis, of Belleville. She is well known throughout this vicinity on account of her work in the Eclectic institute.

Dr. MacKenzie and wife are now establishing a branch office in Clearfield, but expect to be at home to their friends at their home 317 East Main street, Lock Haven, in the near future.

—Mr. Robert Morris entertained Tuesday evening at the House of "Reich-rath," situated along the shores of the picturesque Spring Creek, the following distinguished company of guests: Miss Florence Hays, Miss Callaway, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Thompson and Mr. Elliott Gault.

—Four of the Tyrone division firemen have been promoted to handle the throttle, viz: Wm. Shellenberger, at Tyrone; M. C. Cherry, at Phillipsburg; Joe. Eech-bach, at Snow Shoe, and Amos Gardner stationed at Phillipsburg.

DEAD PLACED AT 114!

This Number is the Limit of Rolling Mill Mine Disaster.

WORK MAY RESUME TODAY

Condition of all the Workings is such as to Allow Almost Perfect Ventilation of the Various Parts of the Workings.

FUNERAL OF MANY TAKE PLACE.

JOHNSTOWN, July 14.—After a consultation Sunday evening with the four state mine inspectors summoned here to make a thorough inspection of Rolling Mill mine of the Cambria Steel company Sunday, James E. Roderick, chief of the state bureau of mining inspection, dictated a notice to General Manager C. S. Price, of the Cambria company, granting formal permission to resume operations in all sections of the mine except the Klondike in the morning. The Klondike workings will likely be closed for several days until perfect security is assured through the bratticing of openings and repairs necessitated by the explosion.

Two more deaths of rescued victims have occurred since Saturday night. Early Sunday morning John Seher and Yasante Sibola expired at the Cambria general hospital. These men were among the six living last brought out of the mine Friday afternoon, of which four others have expired. These deaths raise the total fatality list to 114, although the company records have it one less. Much confusion has attended the compilation of the record.

Mine Superintendent G. T. Robinson Sunday evening said: "I would not like to assert that there are no more bodies in the mine but I don't think there are."

At 9.30 a. m. State Mine Inspector William T. Evans, of Johnstown, Joseph Williams, of Altoona, C. B. Rose, of Greensburg, and L. G. Roby, of Uniontown, left Chief Roderick and the mine officers at the mine office and entered the mine. They went all through the Klondike making air tests and noting the conditions controlling ventilation. They found many openings which retarded the proper course of air currents and noted them. The inspection lasted for hours. After finishing the Klondike section the experts went through all the other sections which have never manifested dangerous symptoms. There they found matters in ordinary shape and at 4.30 p. m. the men left the mine to report at the hotel to Chief Roderick.

This talk went over all the men knew of the mine before and since the explosion, the effects of the explosion and all pertaining to the prospects of the future immunity from a similar catastrophe. The men paid particular note to the ferreting out, if possible, of the cause of the explosion and the fact whether the blame rests upon any one now living upon whom heavy punishment would alight.

Of course the inspectors would say nothing as to their discoveries. They will remain mute to the public on the subject until called upon to testify at the inquest, the date of which Coroner Miller will not fix until today. Chief Roderick will likely leave today, but says he will return for the inquest, as will his other out of town subordinates.

"I decline to say what my conclusions are since I have talked with the ones who were in Sunday," said Mr. Roderick. "But I will say that I consider the rolling mill mine a very well conducted institution."

The most interest centered Sunday in the funeral obsequies which were scattered throughout the city. The black cloud of mourning was heaviest over Cambria City, where the foreign population dwells. It was a grim fete day, in which the number of participants was augmented by throngs the morning trains brought in. The outsiders came from towns within a radius of fifty miles or more. These visitors spread themselves out in squads and took in the various points of interest associated with the dread tragedy; At the foot of the tramway leading up to the main pit mouth all paid a visit. Hundreds gathered there at a time in the vain hope of seeing newly discovered bodies brought forth to gratify their curious gaze.

—Nora Turner, a 16 year old colored girl of Williamsport, disappeared from her home Saturday night. Her friends searched all night for her and Sunday they found her asleep beside a cow in a field near the city. She gave no reason for her strange action.

PINEY OIL COMPANY DISBANDS.

The Company Disburses Its Funds. Shareholders Receive About 8 Per Cent.

The Piney Coal and Oil Company held its final meeting in Centre Hall Friday, 27th ult., at which time so far as practicable, the funds of the company on account of the sale of its property, were disbursed.

The company was formed in 1865, and chartered in 1877. The original incorporators were ten in number, nine of whose names are here given:

Peter Hoffer, D. C. Keller, Andrew Gregg, George Durst, Lafayette Neff, Lewis Hess, Centre Hall; Gibson Larimer, Hon. C. T. Alexander, Belleville; David Gilliland, Linden Hall.

The capital invested was $15,000.00, divided in fifty shares of $300.00 each. The property consisted of a tract of land in Clarion county, containing 106 acres. No attempt was ever made to develop the property and for some time past the land was leased for the taxes.

N. B. Spangler, Esq., secretary of the reconstructed corporation, sold the Piney Coal and Oil Company's property according to a resolution passed at a meeting of the company held in this place May 25th, 1901, for the sum of $1,300.

After paying expenses the shareholders received about 8 per cent. of the original money invested.

The officers and directors of the company were H. Y. Stitzer, president; N. B. Spangler, secretary; directors—B. D. Brislin, Centre Hall; S. M. Swartz, Tusseyville; Rev. S. G. Shannon, Pitman Grove, N. J.

A Tempest in a Teapot.

Belleville was treated Monday morning to what promised to be a great sensation and excitement ran high when the news became circulated around that the decaying remains of an infant child had been fished out of the mill race at Gerberich's mill. It was about 11 o'clock when the gruesome discovery was made by some of the hands employed at Crider's lumber yard. The bones of what was supposed to be a child were found wrapped in paper and placed in a box.

As soon as the news became broadcast hundreds of people hastened to the scene, among the number being would-be Congressman Dr. M. J. Locke, who for the time being forgot his political ambitions in the laudable desire to solve this mystery which smacked so strongly of foul play. That sleuth-hound of the law, County Detective Joe Rightmour, soon got wind of it and with commendable zeal hastened to the scene as fast as his legs could carry him. No doubt as he hastened he imagined himself the hero of as great a mystery as ever succumbed to the genius of a Sherlock Holmes. Burgess Blanchard and District Attorney Spangler were not far behind him with Col. Mullen bringing up the rear.

An investigation was at once set on foot but alas and alack the chance for these great men to distinguish themselves rapidly faded away, for it was easily seen that the bones were those of some animal, probably a dog or a cat. And thus what might have proven a sensation for the local correspondents of the city papers to work upon and afforded exciting gossip to our citizens for many days to come was knocked in the head.

Nittany Valley Reunion.

Saturday, the 19th inst., has been decided upon as the date for the reunion of Nittany valley people. The reunion will be held in Gentzel's grove, about one mile west of Zion. No formal invitations have been issued and all former citizens of the valley and the public in general are cordially invited to attend. The reunion will be under the management of the Zion band, who have arranged an elaborate program of amusements, such as sack races, wheelbarrow race, foot races, game of base ball, and fireworks in the evening. This will be an old folks' reunion, having been suggested by the older citizens of the valley who desire to make it a day of rare enjoyment in renewing acquaintances and recalling days of yore. To the young people it will prove a festive occasion. Several bands will be present. Good meals will be served on the grounds and all kinds of refreshments will be on sale.

Death of Wm. Heckman.

William Heckman, a prominent Penna Valley farmer, died at his home near Centre Hall Friday evening at 5 o'clock, aged 68 years. He was a brother of County Commissioner Daniel Heckman of this place.

Deceased is survived by a wife and seven children. The funeral took place Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock from his late residence. Interment was made in the Heckman cemetery in Penna Valley. Deceased was a member of the Lutheran church.

GLASS FOR WINDOWS

THE METHOD AND THE MATERIALS OF ITS MANUFACTURE.

Enough Arsenic in the Windows of an Ordinary House to Kill a Regiment of Men—Process of the Tankhouse and the Pothouse.

People who have glass windows in their homes do not know that the glass contains enough arsenic to make it a deadly poison. Glassmakers say that the windows of an ordinary home contain enough of this poison to kill a regiment of men. The popular supposition that glass is made of sand is a correct one, but a quantity of other articles enters into its composition.

Window glass factories are divided into two departments, a tankhouse and a pothouse. The process of glassmaking in one of these departments is practically the same as in the other. In the tankhouse the glass is all melted in immense tanks which will hold thousands of tons. In the pothouse the glass is made in pots.

After the fires are lighted and a tank is heated the glass mixture is shoveled in. It includes glass left over from the former season, glass refuse, sand and salt cake. Arsenic is not used in the tankhouse for the reason that the heat is so intense that the drug is volatilized and escapes into the air without entering the mixture. As one mixture melts and flows to one end of a tank fresh supplies are shoveled in at the other end.

The molten mass seethes and "works" in a manner similar to that of a mash in a distillery. From the salt cake comes a salt water that has to be separated from the mass, and the easiest way to remove it is to turn it out. This is done by throwing stove wood into the tank on top of the molten glass. The water is converted into steam, which is destroyed by the intense heat from the glass. The molten glass is then skimmed by an automatic skimmer, and it is ready for the gatherer.

A gatherer thrusts a long steel blowpipe into one of the rings at the lower end of the tank. He twists and turns it until a small ball of glass gathers on the end. This ball is partially cooled, polished by being turned in a box of sawdust and then passed on to the blower, who heats it again until it becomes like taffy. The blower swings the ball over a pit that is twelve feet deep and rapidly blows it into an elongated pear shape. When a blower is through, the melted glass becomes a perfect cylinder about 5 feet long and 2 feet across. It then passes to a "snapper," who takes it to a rack and breaks the roller loose from the blowpipe.

The snapper gathers a small lump of melted glass on the end of a rod and dexterously runs a narrow ribbon of the stuff around the ends of the roller, both at the blowpipe end and the closed end. The little ribbons of melted glass cool in a few seconds, when they are removed, leaving a narrow zone of almost red-hot glass around the rollers at each end. Then, taking a tool that resembles a soldering iron, the snapper rubs it for a moment on his forehead, and when the point of it is moistened with perspiration he runs the iron around the rollers at the heated spot. The glass cracks and separates as cleanly as if cut with a diamond. The blowpipe is removed, and the closed cylinder has become a roller and is then ready to go to the flattener.

The flattener works in another part of the building, where are located the flattening ovens. These ovens are heated to a temperature sufficient to soften the glass so that it may be rolled out into sheets. A series of freelay tables placed in a circle like the spokes of a wheel revolve in the ovens, and on these tables the rollers are flattened. They are placed inside, allowed to become hot, and then a cold iron is run along the inside from end to end. The contact of the iron cuts the glass, which is then straightened out upon the table.

The flattener has a number of billets of green wood attached to long iron handles, and with these billets, which are shaped in such a manner as to do the work expected of them, he "irons" the softened sheet of glass until it is perfectly flat and smooth. The tables inside the oven revolve, the flattened sheet is carried away, and another roller is brought into position before the flattener. As the flattened sheets cool they are lifted to a place on a long traveling rack, on which they are by stages removed from the ovens, being allowed to cool as they go. This is done in order that the glass may not be shattered by too quick an exposure to the air.

When the sheets are taken from the flattening ovens, they are covered with a greasy, dirty looking coat of chemicals—soda, potash, silicates of the different salts, etc.—which must be removed, and for this purpose the rough sheets are placed in an acid bath composed of hydrochloric and sulphuric acids more or less diluted. After their immersion in this bath the sheets are taken to the cutting room, where workmen cut them into sizes and make them ready for the packers. Hardly a scrap of the glass except the rough edges is wasted. In fact, none is wasted, as all refuse goes back to be melted. After the cutters have finished their work the glass is packed in boxes and is then ready for the market.—Indianaapolis News.

GETTING AWAY FROM HOME

The Spirit of Restlessness and the Desire For Change.

Judging by a good deal of the conversation of the present day, there are a large number of people who have a positive horror of home. This curious revulsion of feeling is taken by many persons as a sign of social deterioration. For our own part we find it difficult to take it quite seriously or to see in it anything more than a passing whim.

Nobody nowadays likes monotony. Change is what people desire—not perhaps any great change, but lots of small change; not necessarily for the better, but for its own sake. Now, there is a great sameness about one's own four walls, be they ever so handsome. We all feel at times an overpowering desire to look at something else. We cannot change the patterns or the pictures on them every day, and neither they nor the home furniture ever seems to alter in expression.

Again, there is a terrible sameness about one's own cook. Experience enables us to foretell the taste of everything at home, from the soup to the savory if we are rich and from the mutton to the cheese if we are poor; whereas if we dine at a restaurant everything down to the salt is different, and the restaurant is refurnished daily with new faces.

Then, again, the music and stir going on around one avoid the necessity for much conversation, and conversation in the home circle is sometimes difficult and sometimes dull. It does not do always just to say what one thinks, it is such bad practice for dining out, and this being the case, it is not easy sometimes to think what to say.

Nowadays we get, socially speaking, tired of our friends and even of our acquaintances. We want them to pass continually before us like a street procession. Instead of that they rather resemble a stage crowd and keep coming up again. There is a limit to those we know, a limit even to those we should like or should be likely to know even by sight, and at a restaurant this latter limit is disregarded. The barrier of good manners which forbids that those who are acquainted with one another should speak is sufficient to protect our station or our dignity, but it is not a very high fence, and it is one which it is amusing to look over.—London Spectator.

SOME PUZZLERS.

How many teeth have you?
How high (in inches) is a silk hat?
Which way does the crescent moon turn, to the right or left?
How many toes has a cat on each fore foot? On each hind foot?

What color are your employer's eyes?
The eyes of the man at the next desk?
In which direction is the face turned on a cent? On a quarter? On a dime?

How many steps lead from the street to the front door of your house or flat?
What are the exact words on a two cent stamp, and in which direction is the face on it turned?

Write down, offhand, the figures on the face of your watch. The odds are that you will make at least two mistakes in doing this.

What is the name, signed in facsimile, on any dollar, two dollar, five dollar or ten dollar bill you ever saw? You've read dozens of those names—can you remember one?

Your watch has some words written or printed on its face. You have seen these words a thousand times. Write them out correctly. Few can do this. Also what is the number in the case of your watch?—Washington Times.

The Boy and the Farm.

How often we hear parents discourage the boys who wish to stay on the farm! They refer to farm work as drudgery and that which tends to make them slaves to work rather than independent men. The biggest boys are educated for professional men and in many instances excel, but the vast majority of these, with a good practical education such as can be gained in our schools of agriculture, would become wealthy, progressive farmers, with fine farms and beautiful homes, if they had been encouraged and advised to stay by the old farm and make it a success.—Maxwell's Tallman.

Alert For an Angel.

Mr. Stormington Barnes and his leading man were passing a village church. "Listen!" exclaimed the eminent tragedian.

"Does the music of the choir carry you back to your boyhood days?"
"No; but you know how long we have been looking for some one with money who was willing to back the show."

WATER RIGHTS INVOLATE.

Springs and Wells in Palestine Are Protected by Severe Laws.

Water is the most precious thing in Palestine, and the laws which protect springs and wells are very severe. Most of the wells are artificial. Rich men at very great expense have chiseled basins and reservoirs out of the rocks to receive the flow from springs, and in many places where no springs could be found they have drilled through the limestone a hundred feet and sometimes twice that distance to the artesian basin.

None but very rich sheiks can afford such an expenditure. Nevertheless, they have not only been the greatest benefactors of their fellow men, but those who have sunk wells and built fountains have erected monuments to their fame more enduring than palaces or temples or shafts of granite.

The temple of Solomon has vanished forever, but the pools which he walled up with masonry and filled with water still remain. The wells that Abraham and Jacob drilled in the rock as acts of piety as well as power are as immortal as their names and will live forever as long as men feel thirst.

According to a just custom of the country, water rights could never be forfeited. No man who owned a well might refuse his neighbor water for his family or his flocks, but the lord of the spring was inviolate. No creditor or enemy could take his water rights away from him. To injure or fill up a well was an unpardonable crime. When the Philistines threw earth and stones into the well of Abraham, they intended to challenge him to a war of extermination. These customs and regulations remain today. Chicago Record-Herald.

THE ARABS OF YEMEN

A Story Which Throws a Strong Light on Their Character.

The Times of India tells the following story to show the character of the Arabs of Yemen. A man of Zaranik who several times cut the telegraph lines and who was punished more than once was caught on one occasion by an Arab sheik in charge of the lines. The sheik intended to send him to Mecca for imprisonment, but the wife of the accused came in and stood as a guarantee for his future good behavior.

The sheik accepted the bail and released him, but shortly afterward he again resorted to his old practice of cutting the wires and bolted away to another village at a distance of a day's march, where he had another wife. The sheik then sent for his first wife, who stood security for him, and told her he would disgrace her among the Arabs if she failed to bring in her husband.

The woman asked the sheik not to "spread the black sheet" (a custom of the country when any one commits a breach of trust) until the following day. She started that night, taking a sharp dagger concealed under her clothes, to the village where her husband was staying. She found him asleep in his abode and stabbed him, cut his throat and carried his head back to her home. The next morning she went to the sheik and presented the head of her husband, saying: "Here is your criminal, and I am freed from the bail. Please do not affix the black sheet."—London Telegraph.

High Temperature.

Tommy had had pneumonia, so had been for some time in hospital, where they treated him so well that he was much averse to the prospect of being discharged as "cured."

One day the doctor in charge was taking his temperature, and while Tommy had the thermometer in his mouth the doctor moved on and happened to turn his back. Tommy saw his chance. He pulled the thermometer out of his mouth and popped it into a cup of hot tea, replacing it at the first sign of the medico turning.

When that worthy examined the thermometer, he looked first at Tommy, then back to the thermometer and gasped:

"Well, my man, you're not dead, but you ought to be!"—London Chronicle.

Nature His Hired Man.

It was in the far South.

"How's times?" asked the tourist.
"Pretty tolerable, stranger," responded the old man who was sitting on a stump. "I had some trees cut down, but the cyclone leveled them and saved me the trouble."

"That was good."
"Yes, and then the lightning set fire to the brush pile and saved me the trouble of burning it."

"Remarkable! But what are you doing now?"
"Waiting for an earthquake to come along, and shake the potatoes out of the ground."—Chicago News.

Darned Stockings.

Tender feet are often made so by the use of much darned stockings. Wear light woolen stockings, and let them be of the cheap kind, that you will not mind discarding directly they become worn. To harden the skin it is a good plan to rub the soles of the feet with methylated spirits every day or to wash them over with salt water.

THE CLUMSY MAN.

You Can Never Be Sure of What His Next Break Will Be.

The great virtue about the really clumsy man is that he never exhausts his capabilities. When you think that the bedrock is reached, there is still a lower depth. If a detrimental relative should exist, the clumsy man asks after his health with great particularity and will not be satisfied until he receives a full and detailed reply. Should there be any incident in your past which everybody has generously agreed to forget it is the clumsy man who seizes the one, the inevitable opportunity, when the club is at its fullest and says loudly: "Somebody was talking the other day about that unfortunate little affair of yours in '95. Now tell me!"

When on meeting him you say casually and with no desire for information, "How are you?" he insists on giving you complete data, and he is as full of small complaints as a refractory pauper. It is only fair to add that he will ask affectionately after the colds of yesteryear, and his favorite locale for this is at the corner of a drafty street. He might be subsidized by influenza or he might get a commission on sore throats from his eagerness to pin you into the most dangerous position that can be discovered.

One desires an adequate amount of sympathy in distress, but our man always goes a little beyond this point. You are growing thin, and he says that you are wasting away to a shadow. You are growing stout, and he tells an unamusing anecdote about apoplexy. He can be more critical than a hair-dresser if occasion gives the least excuse.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A UNIQUE DORMITORY.

One That is Owned by the University of the South.

Dean Hoffman was noted for charitable impulses, which his large income allowed him to indulge in. Some years ago the dean invested heavily in land in a small southern town which was then enjoying a "boom" period. Among the dean's other investments was a beautiful little hotel, exquisitely appointed and perfect in every detail. After awhile the "boom" fell through, and the little hotel became a losing investment.

At this time the chancellor of the University of the South, an old friend of Dean Hoffman, was on a hunting trip with him in the mountains of North Carolina.

"We are badly in need of a dormitory down at Suwanee," said the chancellor.

"Yes," said Hoffman and sat thinking for a moment. "Well, you can have the hotel building down at B—," naming the town. "You can take it to pieces and move it to Suwanee. It ought to make a pretty little dormitory."

The chancellor was greatly pleased and made all the arrangements to move the hotel, when, to his astonishment, the citizens of the town obtained an injunction against its removal on the grounds that the hotel in a way was public property and that to remove it would leave the town without any hotel accommodations. A legal fight followed, but the university won out in the end. So the University of the South revels in the luxury of the most unique dormitory in the world.—New York Times.

The Home of the Kindergarten.

The Japanese have the most perfect kindergarten system in the world. In fact, they originated this method of instructing by entertainment instead of by punishment inflicted. Their play apparatus for such purpose is elaborate, but all of it is adapted to the infant mind, which it is designed at once to amuse and to inform. The little ones of Japan even become somewhat interested in mathematics by seeing and feeling what a pretty thing a cone, a sphere or a cylinder is when cut out of wood with a lathe. They make outlines of solid figures out of straw, with green peas to hold the joints together, and for the instruction of the blind blocks are provided with the Japanese characters raised upon them.

Insomnia Remedies.

However hopeless you may consider your case, be slow to fly to drugs for relief from insomnia. A rubber bag full of broken ice applied to the back of the neck and a hot water bag at the feet are highly recommended as a remedy for insomnia even in obstinate cases. The circulation is equalized by this treatment.

The secret of hot milk cure also recommended for sufferers from insomnia lies in sipping the beverage. The act of slowly swallowing the liquid is soothing in its effect and generally produces the much desired drowsy feeling which leads to the coveted sleep.

Putting It Gently.

"But is she pretty?"

A Souvenir.

"Is it an engagement ring?"
"No," answered the oft-times summer girl. "It is a souvenir."
"But you say you don't remember who gave it to you."
"That is true. But it may be considered an effective souvenir, none the less. I have no doubt the donor often recalls what it cost and remembers me."—Washington Star.

A Fish Story.

Appropos to the snake story told in our columns this week one of our leading divines, who for obvious reasons does not wish his name to appear, told us a fish story the other day which he says is strictly true, and he verily believes it correct. His story is that a young boy who lived in a town where he at one time preached used to catch fish with his nose, he would go out on the lake in a small boat and putting his nose in the water, the fish would bite at it, when by a quick motion of his head he would throw them into the boat, he fished for a livelihood and by this means was enabled to support himself and his old mother. This is the story as we remember it, and coming from such reliable authority we can do nothing else than accept it as true, though it is a strain on our faith, when the Rev. preaches about Jonah and the whale we want to hear the discourse and should not wonder if he would try to convince his congregation that Jonah swallowed the whale.

AWFUL MINE DISASTER!

Caused by Explosion of Gas in Cambria Company Mine at Johnstown.

MANY LIVES SNUFFED OUT

Estimates Run From 125 to 250, but Time Alone Can Tell the Total Number of Dead.

MINE WAS INSPECTED RECENTLY

JOHNSTOWN, July 11.—Johnstown has again been visited by an appalling disaster. It is only less frightful than the awful calamity of May 31, 1889, in cost of life, but in its terrible consequences it has brought the shadow of sorrow in hundreds of homes made desolate by an appalling mine explosion, which took place in the Cambria Steel company rolling mill mine, under Westmont Hill, at 12:20 o'clock Thursday afternoon. How many are dead, it may take several days to determine, but that it is a long and shocking list is certain. It may reach 200 or more men.

It was nearly an hour after the explosion before any general knowledge of what had happened got abroad. Men who came from the mine, escaping with their lives, told the terrible news, and soon it spread like wild-fire all over the city. In hundreds of homes there were the most pathetic scenes. Mothers, wives, daughters, sons and relatives were frantic with grief. Hundreds rushed to the Point and with sobbing hearts awaited news that did not come from the ill-fated mine.

At the opening across the river from the Point the Cambria company police, with several assistants, stood guard, permitting no one to enter the mine from which noxious gases were coming.

It was nearly 4 o'clock when all hope of sending rescue parties from the Westmont opening was abandoned. Two men who had escaped from the mine—Richard Bennett and John Meyers—went back two miles to see what assistance could be rendered, but the frightful damp drove them back and they fell prostrate, when they finally, after a desperate struggle, reached the outside. Two doctors gave the men assistance and after working with them half an hour restored them to a normal condition. Their story of the situation in the mine made it clear that rescue work could not proceed from the Westmont opening and then hasty preparations were made to begin at the sad mission at the Mill Creek entrance.

Soon after the news of the frightful explosion reached the Cambria officials, Mining Engineer Marshall G. Moore and one of his assistants, A. G. Prosser, made an attempt to enter the mine. They were soon followed by Mine Superintendent George T. Robinson, but the deadly gases stopped their progress.

Mine Foreman Harry Rodgers, his assistant, William Blanch, and Fire Bosses John Whitney, John Retaillick and John Thomas were overcome by the gases, and it is feared they perish in an heroic attempt to rescue the miners.

The 15-year-old son of Harry Rodgers, when he heard that his father had been overcome with after-damp, started down the mine to help rescue him if possible, and he had no sooner entered the shaft when the deadly gas almost overcame him and he had to be carried back. His tongue protruded its whole length from his mouth and men had to force his jaws apart with a stick to prevent lock-jaw.

William Stibich spent several hours at the Mill Creek opening. He said that he believed as many as 450 men were still in the mine. In his opinion, from all he could glean, not to exceed 150 men had come out.

Six hundred men were at work in the mine when the explosion occurred. Of this number only about 250 are known to have escaped. Where these entombed are or what condition they are in, time alone will tell. It was utterly impossible to obtain names Thursday night.

President Powell Stackhouse and General Manager Charles S. Price are at the Mill Creek opening in personal charge of the rescue work. They said before leaving that they did not expect to obtain any definite knowledge of the situation in the mine for several hours, but both of them expressed the hope that the currents of air being forced into the great drift was reaching the imprisoned men. They declared their belief that the men were still alive but this is discredited by persons who were underground when the explosion took place.

JOHNSTOWN, July 12.—At 1 o'clock this morning it can be stated that of the 600 men supposed to have entered the mouth of the Rolling Mill mine of the Cambria Steel company Thursday morning 90 are known to be dead and 22 rescued. Four hundred, so the mine officials claim, escaped when the explosion occurred, leaving 88 still to be accounted for. Some of these, according to those in charge of the rescue work, are dead, but the majority, they claim, have escaped.

From physicians, heads of rescue parties and others who are familiar with the different headings in the mine, it is learned that at least 35 additional bodies will be brought to the temporary morgue at daylight, making a list of dead of 125. This, so President Powell Stackhouse, of the Cambria Steel company, stated will be the extent of the dead, but until all checks, by which the miners are known, are presented at the office of the company, an accurate list of the dead will not be known.

State Mine Inspector J. T. Evans, who has been in the mine almost continuously since morning, was joined by Chief Roderick, of the Bureau of Mine Inspectors. Mr. Evans entered into a full report of his investigation. He said to the Associated Press reporter:

"Mr. Roderick can hardly credit my description of the condition of the mine after such a dreadful calamity. It is wonderful that there should have been such havoc in loss of life with such a small explosion."

"There was very little rock brought down by the force of the explosion. A number of doors were blown open and some boards knocked off, but the cost of repairing will be insignificant, not more than $25, I should say."

"I will have to take a look over the mine," interrupted Chief Roderick doubtfully and with a laugh.

"There was no explosion of dust; no evidence of it," said Mr. Evans. "All the men were working with locked safety lamps. There are a dozen things that might have caused the explosion. The man responsible is assuredly among the dead."

"How soon could the mine be placed in condition for resuming operations?"

"So far as I have examined things I believe the men could start Monday."

It is reported that a portion of the Cambria Steel company works was forced to suspend operations today owing to a short supply of fuel. The long suspension of the mine would seriously hamper the works.

STORY OF DR. TOMB.

Dr. H. F. Tomb, who went into the mine with Dr. L. W. Jones and the rescuers at 9 o'clock yesterday morning and came out with the 14 injured men brought out at 8 o'clock in the afternoon said tonight:

"We found the air good in the main heading upon going in, except on the left. We went to No. 6 section on the right and turned up as far as room No. 25. Then we commenced taking out dead miners. Upon going back to the main heading we turned back to No. 4 left, where we heard voices. There we found three foreigners in good condition. One of them was A. M. Kohler, of Cambria City, whose ingenuity saved his life and those of his companions. When Kohler found they were trapped they jumped into a room through which a compressed air pipe passed. This broke in some manner and the men after closing up the door with canvas had plenty of good air."

"These men came from the mine at 3 o'clock in fairly good condition. They told us there were numbers of living and dead up the heading. Not until we reached the 16th room did our eyes meet the most gruesome sight of our trip."

"In that room there were 34 dead and 15 living. They were piled upon one another, some of the living being buried underneath the dead. These were unconscious. We worked industriously on them with oxygen and ammonia. One died on the long trip out."

It's So Easy

To take cold. It's so common to neglect the cold. That is one reason why there are so many people with "deep-seated," stubborn coughs, and so many more with "lung trouble."

The short, quick way to cure a cough is to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The quicker this remedy is used the quicker the cure. But even when neglect has let disease fasten on the lungs, "Golden Medical Discovery" may be relied on to cure in ninety-eight cases out of every hundred.

The only motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make the little extra profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines. He gains. You lose. Therefore accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

"I am feeling quite well," writes Miss Dorcas A. Lewis, of No. 2129 14th St., Washington, D. C. "My cough is very much better, and I owe it all to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I cannot say too much in praise of the medicine. I had been quite a sufferer for a long time, and after reading Doctor Pierce's Common Sense Medical Advice I would try his Golden Medical Discovery. I commenced taking it in May, 1899. Had not been sleeping well for a long time. I am in great sympathy with everybody who suffers with a cough. I had been a sufferer for more than ten years. I tried lots of different medicines and different doctors, but did not feel much better. I coughed until I commenced spitting blood, but now I feel much stronger and am entirely well. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the best medicine I have ever taken. My home is in Williamsburg, Virginia."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a ladies' laxative. No other medicine equals them for gentleness and thoroughness.

The Water Schedule.

We heartily endorse every word in the "Watchman's" article on the water question. Editor Meek has gone thoroughly into the subject and shows the fallacy under which our Council are laboring, the members of that body should understand that the taxpayers have some rights that even the Council must respect. They cannot discriminate against those who are using it for mechanical purposes. And it is not just that they should, because those who are using it to run motors are employing many persons, and their pay rolls are quite an item in the amount of money put into circulation in our town, and besides it is not intended that the Water Works should be a money making concern, and no more should be charged for water, to any one using it than its actual cost.

We believe that when the members of council sit down, pencil in hand and figure the question for themselves they will see the error they committed when the new schedule was adopted.

A Birthday Celebration.

A very delightful time was enjoyed at the beautiful home of ex-Sheriff Schaeffer at Nittany Wednesday. It was the celebration of Mrs. Schaeffer's birthday. The hours passed in music, song reminiscences and pleasanties, intermingled with the serious thought and memory of the dearly beloved and departed ones. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Schaeffer, of Bellefonte; Mrs. William Knecht, of Parvin; A. K. Diehl, of Baltimore, Md.; Miss Mary Knecht, of Parvin; Miss Mabel Dumm, of Mackeyville; Miss Dornblaser, of Williamsport; Mrs. Belle Robb, of Altoona; and others. The occasion was graced by the presence of the first great grand son Ralph Schaeffer Robb, of Altoona. Mr. and Mrs. Schaeffer are hosts of genuine hospitality.

The dinner consisted of all the delicacies of the season and were lavishly served to highly appreciative guests who after a day of pleasure separated, wishing "many happy returns."

The Bellefonte Hospital.

An application for a charter has been made for what is to be known as "The Bellefonte Hospital." The hospital referred to is the fine new Hayes hospital just completed by Dr. R. G. H. Hayes at this place, which through his unselfishness is to be turned over to the public. The hospital is to be public in every sense of the word.

Under the plan suggested by Dr. Hayes when he decided to make his hospital a public institution a board of managers consisting of five physicians and five laymen has been selected who are to have absolute control of it.

The board of managers consists of Dr. George F. Harris, president; Dr. R. G. H. Hayes, vice president; Col. Wilbur F. Reeder, secretary; Geo. R. Meek, treasurer; Doctors Seibert, Klump and Sebring, Col. W. F. Reynolds, F. W. Crider and C. C. Shuey.

Saved a Woman's Life.

To have given up would have meant death for Mrs. Lois Cragg, of Dorchester, Mass. For years she had endured untold misery from a severe lung trouble and obstinate cough. "Often," she writes, "I could scarcely breathe and sometimes could not speak. All doctors and remedies failed till I used Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was completely cured." Sufferers from Coughs, Colds, Throat and Lung Trouble need this grand remedy, for it never disappoints. Cure is guaranteed by Green's Pharmacy. Price 50c and 1.00. Trial bottles free.

Deceased was born at Romola and was 61 years of age last December. He was one of the county's most progressive merchants and for years has conducted a large general merchandise store at Romola. His honest and upright business deportment and his genial and affable disposition has won for him the confidence, respect and esteem of his neighbors and all people with whom he has had commercial relations and social intercourse.

In the fall of 1900 he was nominated for Jury Commissioner by the Republicans and elected to that office. He made an excellent official.

He is survived by his wife, whose maiden name was Belle M. Heaton, and also the following children: John M. a liveryman at Howard; C. F. a clerk at Johnsonburg; D. W. a clerk in the Pennsylvania Railroad office at Pittsburgh and Edward, Toner, Edith and Relda at home.

He was an earnest member of the Reformed church and the funeral was held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from his late residence in Curtin township. The services were conducted by Rev. Errende Crow and Runkle. Interment in the Reformed cemetery at Romola.

The deceased also left one brother, Frederick, of Romola, the present democratic jury commissioner.

An Aged Lady's Death.

Mrs. Hannah Crook, an aged widow lady who made her home with her son-in-law Uriah Housel near McCalum's lime kiln, died Thursday evening at 8:15 of infirmities incident to old age.

Deceased was born at Howard, Centre county, 76 years ago. She was an earnest member of the Disciples church of Howard and a conscientious christian lady. She is survived by two children, Mrs. Uriah Housel and Lincoln Crook, both of this place.

Funeral services were held at the Housel residence Saturday morning at 8 o'clock conducted by Rev. T. W. Perke, of the United Brethren church, and Rev. George Israel Brown, of St. John's Episcopal church. The remains were then taken on the 9:28 train to Howard where services were held in the Disciples church at that place conducted by Rev. Berger. Interment in the Howard cemetery.

A Popular Conductor.

L. L. Haupt, one of the oldest and most experienced passenger conductors in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, was in Williamsport Thursday and the News gives the veteran railroad his compliment: Mr. Haupt resides in Tyrone and he has punched tickets on the Bald Eagle Valley railroad nearly as many years as the line has been open, and on the Tyrone and Clearfield branch ever since it has been in existence. His run is from Lock Haven over the first named route to Tyrone, thence over the other road to its terminus at Pennville, six miles south of Curwensville, every alternate day. His many years in the harness, his kind, courteous and accommodating manner and pleasing address have gained for him a legion of friends and made him one of the most popular conductors anywhere.

Too Brave to Be Killed.

The Atlantic Journal is authority for the statement that General Stonewall Jackson saved the life of William McKinley. At the battle of Antietam, it says, "one of General Jackson's men raised his gun to fire at the Union soldier, who stood just opposite the creek. As he was about to fire Gen. Jackson said: 'Stop! Lower your gun. I have watched that boy all day. He is too brave to be killed.' The boy in blue was our late president, then only 17 years of age."

State College Library Assured.

Dr. George W. Atherton, president of the Pennsylvania State College, is in receipt of a communication from Andrew Carnegie's approving the action of the trustees at the recent college commencement in reference to the plan adopted for the acceptance of Mr. Carnegie's offer of $100,000 for a college library, and authorizing the board to proceed with the erection of the building. Plans for the library are already being made by a Philadelphia architect.

A Tribute to Heine.

The Philadelphia Press has this to say about Senator Heine:

Senator Heine, of the Centre-Clearfield-Clinton district, will be renominated by the Democrats without opposition. He made such an excellent record in the last session that his re-election would not be in doubt against a less formidable opponent than Alexander E. Patton, of Clearfield, but as the situation is the contest will be a particularly lively and interesting one.

Struck Dead by Lightning.

During a severe electric storm, which passed over Clearfield county Wednesday afternoon, lightning struck and instantly killed a young man named Frank Burns, who resided at Graupian. He was one of three standing in a doorway when stricken, neither of the other two being injured.

—We are about half sorry for having published the article Wednesday on our School Directors, for those members who have visited the schools during the past year have been jumping all over us for not giving the names of the two school directors who failed to do so. There is one thing certain, and that is, the article was read, and it was for that reason we published it.

Miners Glee Club.

The REPUBLICAN was favored at noon Friday, by a serenade from a double male quartette, styling themselves "The Anthracite Miners Glee Club". They have superb voices, and made the "welkin" ring with their sweet melody. The Glee Club is composed of miners from the anthracite region, who take this method of supporting themselves and their families, during the continuance of the strike. We had the pleasure of meeting two of them, and found them to be gentlemen of a high type. The appearance of the Club is decidedly in their favor and they deport themselves in the most gentlemanly manner. The following comprise the party:—Oliver J. Powell is leader, David W. Hughes secretary and treasurer, D. J. McCullion, W. T. Parry, Thomas Parry and David W. Hughes are the tenors, Thomas Fern, Randall Rees, Benjamin Davis, John Hees and John Simmons are the basses. In order to keep their expenses within bounds, they travel in a two horse covered wagon, and camp out, having a tent with them. On either side of the wagon is a banner indicating what the outfit contains.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Killed by Lightning.

During the storm which passed over the western portion of Centre county Wednesday Mr. Jacob Rider of Gatesburg went to his barn to close the doors, and while in the act of doing so, was struck by lightning and instantly killed. We have not learned whether the building was injured or not. Mr. Rider was aged about 70 years and was a prominent and greatly respected citizen of that community.

TO OUR TOWN COUNCIL.

At the last meeting of Council you adopted a resolution which gives authority to increase the bonded indebtedness of Bellefonte $25,000, and instructed the Finance Committee to have bonds prepared for that amount. Now, gentlemen of the Finance Committee, if you have not already gone to the expense of having the bonds printed, we advise you to delay the matter a little, until you hear what the people have to say. There are some things the Council can do; there is a great deal which they cannot. You may be great financiers, and able to juggle with facts and figures, but there is a period when the people can call a halt. In your action of Monday night you displayed gross ignorance, or have been badly advised, for you had no more right to order that issue of bonds than you had to stop the wheels of justice in our court. You, or your predecessors, have apparently ignored the law, and should the people arise in their might and right somebody might find himself in a disagreeable dilemma.

See what the law says:

"The indebtedness of any county, city, borough * * * may be authorized to be increased to an amount exceeding two percentum and not exceeding seven percentum upon the last preceding assessed valuation of the taxable property therein, with the assent of the electors thereof, duly obtained at a public election, to be held in the said district or municipality."

You will observe that you have the privilege of creating an indebtedness not to exceed two per cent. of the assessed valuation of property, but only under certain conditions. To increase that indebtedness to any amount above two per cent., you must first have the assent of the electors, duly obtained at a public election. We have $95,000 of a debt, for which, according to law, a sinking fund should have been provided. This you have failed to do as far as appears by the auditors' settlement made this year. You now increase it $25,000 not to fund a previous authorized loan, but to take up various orders and notes outstanding—debts which have been illegally contracted.

This new loan is clearly a violation of the law, unless duly authorized by our people, at a public election, and in this particular you have failed, and we serve notice that unless Council is reconvened, and this resolution reconsidered, you will be enjoined from issuing these obligations. We suggest, that in order to avoid unpleasantness of this character, you have your Solicitor examine the law carefully and give an opinion, when you will see that we are correct in our assertions.

It is not pleasant to be continually finding fault, but we believe it our duty to publish facts which are of such vital import to our people.

After this matter has been disposed of, there are other irregularities which shall be brought to the notice of the public, and in the meantime it would be well to see that the people's money is being spent in a legitimate way, and certain improvements in town which should receive immediate attention are looked after.

THE NEW PUMP AND WATER WHEEL A FAILURE.

The new, large water wheel and pump, which has just been installed at the water works, and from which great results were promised, has been tried and found wanting. This pump which cost over $2000 was guaranteed by the manufacturers, to pump at least 324,000 gallons of water every twenty-four hours, and the idea of purchasing it, was to be able to run the works in day time only, thus saving the cost of a fireman and the fuel that would be consumed at night.

Several weeks ago we were told by a prominent engineer, that it would not work, but had so much confidence in those who were making the purchase, to believe he was mistaken, but the sequel shows he was not.

We were not aware that a test was to be made Monday, until we saw the watch dog of the water department, going towards the works at an extremely lively gait, as if he were wanted there badly. We did not have time to follow or would have been present to see the machine start, but took occasion to go there last evening, and learned all we care to know.

We ascertained that there was not a sufficient head of water in the spring to make it work, as the wheel is entirely too large, and from what we were told, the entire apparatus will have to be taken out.

Those making the purchase, were so confident of its success, that they tore out the forebay, root and branch, took away the old pump, which was good for 100,000 gallons every twenty-four hours, and it is now lying on the junk pile ready to be hauled away as scrap iron.

Our borough is in a more serious condition than it has been for years, as we now depend entirely on one pump, and if anything should happen to it we would be in a sad dilemma.

We make no comment, nor do we censure any one, but it might have been wise not to have broken up the old pump and sold it, until the new one was found to be all right.

It is but just to state that the borough will not have to pay for this pump, as the makers guaranteed it to do the work required, but there will be incidental expenses connected with the change, which we must pay. The most serious feature, is the destruction of the forebay and old pump, which in an emergency would have been of material use.

July Weather.

Rev. Ira Hicks, who has many advocates as a weather prophet, is out with his predictions for the month of July, and for the benefit of our readers we give below the kind of weather we can expect for the latter half of the month. Rev. Mr. Hicks says:

The opposition of the planet Saturn falls on the 17th and unless frequent and general electrical storms occur to break up the concentration of the solar energy a prolonged term of intensely warm weather will continue through all the central part of the month.

The central Vulcan storm period for the month covers the 15th to the 20th, being central on the 17th, the day of Saturn's opposition with Earth and Sun. This period is also covered by the combined influences of Venus and Mercury.

We may, therefore, expect some notable disturbances between Wednesday, the 16th, and Monday, the 20th. If these disturbances do not take the form of heavy electrical storms, phenomenal heat will prevail and seismic perturbations will probably culminate on and near the 20th. If these general and marked electrical storms develop at this period—results rather to be expected—there will come a gracious respite from the conning heat and drought, thus assisting and perhaps saving the corn crop in many western and northwestern sections.

The 22d to 24th, inclusive, will bring a reaction from high to lower barometer, the temperature will rise to higher readings, and storminess, with lightning, threatening clouds and rain in many localities, will be natural, all reaching the culminating stages on and touching the 24th.

The last storm period for July will culminate during the closing days of the month low barometer, cloudiness with probable rain and thunder storms being in transit from west to east as July goes out.

Good Old Times.

People who talk of the good old times should read these facts compiled by "Popular Mechanics." In good old times there was not a public library in the United States.

Almost all the furniture was imported from England.

There was only one hat factory, and that made cocked hats.

Virginia contained a fifth of the population of the whole country.

A man who jeered at the preacher or criticized the sermon was fined.

Two stage coaches bore all the travel between New York and Boston.

A day laborer considered himself well paid with two shillings a day.

The whipping post and pillory were still standing in New York and Boston.

Trousers were fastened with pegs or laces.

The church collection was taken in a bag at the end of a pole with a bell attached to arouse the sleepy contributors.

The historic Camelback bridge which spans the Susquehanna river at Harrisburg, is soon to be sold to the highest bidder for the lumber that is in it. The bridge was badly damaged by the spring floods. It will be replaced by a modern steel structure. For nearly 90 years this bridge has been the highway for the residents of the rich Cumberland valley, who bring produce to Harrisburg.

The Water Meter Question.

William T. Speer, Esq., our wholesome, good natured county treasurer, called on us Tuesday, to have a talk in relation to the articles which have appeared in the columns of the DAILY NEWS, on the subject of prices charged for supplying our citizens with water. The view he takes of the situation, is one which many others will advocate who have not considered all sides of the question. His idea is to put water meters wherever water is consumed, and lay the tax according to the amount of water used. He says that by doing so, people would be more careful, that spigots would not be allowed to run constantly, and every one would economize in this direction. Mr. Speer is just where you make the great mistake, we don't want people to economize in water, we want them to use, if possible, more than they are now doing. We cannot be too clearly. Let us economize in everything else but place no limit upon the use of water. Now, Mr. Speer for instance, suppose a meter was put at your own home, and you would use less water than you are now doing, what would you look like, your friends would have nothing to do with you, no one ever accused you of being lavish in its use, nor blamed you for using more than you paid for, we would rather encourage you to use more of it.

Providence has given us an unlimited supply of the purest of water. All that is necessary is to have it pumped into the reservoir to be distributed throughout every section of our town, and all we are called upon to do, is to pay the actual expense of pumping it, and necessary repairs to pipes etc., and the tax should be based upon such cost. Just as soon as you commence selling it out like gas, steam heat or electric light, you will find that more sickness will prevail than we have ever known in this community. Side walks will not be kept clean, streets will not be sprinkled, sinks in your kitchen and closets and bath tubs will not be flushed as they should be, and among the poorer people, who can ill afford to pay, they will be sparing of its use. The spring has been the pride and boast of Bellefonte from its foundation. Don't let us make it a luxury so expensive that only the rich can enjoy it.

We think for this time enough has been said, for the water question will be ventilated freely and frequently through our columns, until such a rate is adopted that will be equitable.

Seventy-ninth Anniversary.

On last Sunday, the 13th instant, Mrs. Rebecca Burnside, one of our oldest and most highly respected ladies, attained her seventy-ninth year. Had it not been Sunday a great host of friends would have called to felicitate her upon the event. As it was, her neighbors took occasion to make congratulatory calls, and between sixty and seventy persons visited the Burnside residence, and she was the recipient of many beautiful tokens of love and esteem. Mrs. Burnside is a native of Bellefonte, and as her age would indicate, is among the oldest of our citizens. Her maiden name was Rebecca Thomas, but in early life was married to Mr. Thomas Burnside, one of Bellefonte's prominent business men, who died in St. Louis about fifteen years ago. She has lived to see Bellefonte grow from a small hamlet to one of the most thriving and beautiful inland towns to be found anywhere.

Notwithstanding her weight of years, she is bright and cheerful, taking an interest in every passing event. Her declining years are made comfortable and happy in being surrounded with her family, who to more than an ordinary degree, are devoted to her. The writer joins in the wish, that her life and health may be spared, and her last days be made bright by the love and affection of her friends and neighbors.

JOHN C. SCHREFFLER.

An Old Citizen of Lauvertown Has Joined the Great Majority.

John C. Schreffler, who for thirty-five years or more has been conducting a carpet-weaving establishment at Lauvertown, this county, expired at his home in that place Saturday at noon. Death was due to cancer of the bowels.

Deceased was born in Snyder county and was 73 years of age. He was a devoted member of the Evangelical church, a good citizen and neighbor and will be greatly missed in the community in which he lived.

He was married to Miss Sarah Myers who survives him with the following children: John and Charles, of Lauvertown; Fred and Wesley, of Bellefonte; Annie, wife of H. E. Barnard, and Sarah, wife of Wm. Corl, of Pleasant Gap, and Amanda, wife of Ed. Evers, of Hubersburg.

The funeral took place Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock from the home. The services were conducted by Rev. W. H. Brown, pastor of the Evangelical church of Bellefonte, assisted by Rev. Salter, of Pleasant Gap. Interment in the Lutheran cemetery at Pleasant Gap.

Saw Her Husband Meet Instant Death.

Emanuel M. Metzgar, of Newberry, was instantly killed by electricity Thursday. Metzgar was at work at the top of a forty foot pole. His wife stood on the ground watching him cutting a wire and witnessed his death as a current of 1,100 volts passed through his body. He had gone to cut down a telephone wire running into his house, from which the 'phone had been removed, believing lightning might strike the house through the wire. The hazardous feat proved fatal, for his body came in contact with live wires.

His wife had feared to have him attempt the task himself, but he borrowed a pair of climbers and went to the top of the pole. As she looked upward she saw him suddenly lurch backward from the cross arm and land lifeless on the wires below, four of them holding his body, face down, and allowing the current to pass through his body for about 20 minutes. Robert Rodgers heard her scream and rushed to the scene of the accident, then went to a 'phone and had the current cut off, so that the body could be lowered. When he and James Eck got the unfortunate man to the ground Dr. W. E. Glosser, who was passing, made an examination and found life extinct.

An Attempted Robbery.

MILL HALL, July 14.—Thursday at noon a lady, about 50 years of age, and a 13-year old boy went to the New York Central railroad station and asked for assistance. One of the employees directed her to Overseer of the Poor James Stiver, who gave her an order for two dinners at the Kyler house and an order to the ticket agent at the station for two tickets for Bellefonte. They went to the hotel and got dinner and in the absence of the waitress silverware was found to be taken from the table, which was discovered in time by the landlady. The proprietor was informed of the actions of the woman, he accused her of taking the silverware. He left the dining room, and in the presence of the landlady the woman replaced the spoons, knives and forks, which she had deposited in her stockings. She was then permitted to go unmolested. They went to the Beech Creek station, and left on the afternoon Central train for Bellefonte.—Mill Hall Correspondence of the Lock Haven Express.

Cruel Teeth of a Saw.

A heartrending fatality occurred at Daniel Ruhl's saw mill near Tyrolettsville about 9 o'clock Saturday morning. The victim was an 8 year old son of Frank Roseman, of Clintondale. Friday the little fellow went to Sugar Valley to visit Mr. Ruhl, who is his uncle. Saturday morning the boy went to the saw mill and while there caught hold of a slab which was being fed to the saw. The slab was jerked violently by its contact with the saw, which movement threw the child against the saw. A gash five inches long was inflicted in his breast, his one hand was cut off, and his leg was badly cut. The little fellow expired instantly. His remains were taken to Clintondale for interment.

A Beech Creek Lady Choked by a Burglar.

At Beech Creek Saturday night a burglar rapped at the door of Miss Fannie Nestlerode and demanded admittance. Miss Nestlerode, of course, refused to let the man in. The ruffian then broke in the door, caught hold of the lady and choked her severely. Miss Nestlerode had screamed several times while the man was battering in the door, and while he was choking the lady men in the neighborhood were heard hurrying toward the house. The ruffian made his escape without taking anything or without being caught. He has not been heard of since. Miss Nestlerode has recovered from her fright.

they are of the finest. On his staff are Col. Austin Curtin and Lieut. Robert F. Hunter, both soldierly looking men.

NOTES.

Roger T. Bayard is regimental clerk and is about the busiest man on the grounds.

Lieut. Garbrick is detailed as adjutant to the first battalion. He rides a horse. The first time he was to go out they brought him a pony about the size of the one down at the Palace livery. As he could not let his feet hang down he had to sit cross-legged, tailor fashion, which the Colonel decided was not military, so they changed animals the next day.

Capt. Taylor being the ranking captain of the regiment Company B has the position of honor, occupying the right.

Lieut. Gettitz received news, after being in camp, that the stork had visited his home and left a new recruit for Company B. He has bought a copy of Mother Goose's Melodies in order to entertain the young man when he gets back. The Lieutenant is very popular with the boys, and is an efficient and painstaking officer.

The only thing that detracted from the otherwise fine appearance of the Fifth Regiment on Sunday evening's review were the horses. They were the toughest looking lot of old pligs to be found anywhere and we wonder that any of the officers are willing to appear riding them.

To Lieut. George L. Hayes, M. D., of Pittsburg, who is assistant surgeon of the Fourteenth Regiment, we stand indebted for kind attention. When almost exhausted with the heat he took us in and ministered to our needs. George was a fine boy and has developed into an A. No. 1 man and physician.

Edmund Hayes, when not treating critical cases at the hospital, is having a good time seeing the sights.

General Utility Tom Flank makes himself indispensable at Company headquarters, looking after and providing for the wants of Capt. Taylor and Lieut. Garbrick and Gettitz.

Lieut. Robert F. Hunter, assistant division quartermaster, sports a new saddle and bridle, the gift of Major General Miller. Bob is pretty well swelled up about it, and we don't blame him. They are fine and will be good to take money on.

We just caught sight of Col. Austin Curtin. Was sorry not to have a talk with the old veteran, but he is too busy for much social pleasure.

John Nighthart, our tonsorial artist, is keeping the faces of Company B in presentable appearance.

Last, but not least, it was our pleasure to meet Miss Ida Grenoble, who in company with Miss Emma Baker, called to pay their respects to Company B. Miss Grenoble is the daughter of Mr. I. J. Grenoble, who until within the last few years was a prominent business man at Spring Mills. He now, with his family, resides at Gettysburg, and had it not been that the writer's time was limited, he would have accepted Miss Grenoble's kind invitation to call and have a chat about men and affairs of Centre county.

A Genial Hobo.

Friday afternoon about the time the southbound flyer was due, a genial hobo engaged an intoxicated Hungarian in conversation. The Hun, had a ticket for Pittsburg and the good natured hobo wanted to go most anywhere, but had no ticket. The hobo did his best to entertain the Hun, and insisted on bidding him good-bye with a hearty hand shake and other

A Way Ants Have.

Lord Aveyard declares that ants that maintain their sobriety make a great distinction in their treatment of the intoxicated stranger and the fellow citizen who has succumbed to his blandishments. He inebriated fifty ants, twenty-five from one nest and twenty-five from another, and put them all in to the nest from which one lot had been taken. The inhabitants at once took the helpless strangers and threw them into the water, while those who were citizens of the nest were carried tenderly away into remote corners to recover from their festivity at leisure.

Secrets of Comfort.

Though sometimes small evils, like invisible insects, inflict pain and a single hair may stop a vast machine, yet the chief secret of comfort lies in not suffering trifles to vex one and in prudently cultivating an undergrowth of small pleasures, since very few great ones, alas, are let on long leases.

MOHAMMEDANS AT PRAYER

They Always Respond When the Voice of the Muslin Calls.

The Mohammedan begins his prayer standing, with his hands outspread and his thumbs touching the lobes of his ears. In this position he repeats certain passages from the Koran, then brings his hands down to his girdle, folds them and recites several other passages from the same book. Next he bows forward, rests both hands upon his knees and repeats three times with bowed head the formula of prayer to God, the most great. Then he rises and cries, "Allah hu akbar" (God is great) sixteen times.

He then drops forward until his forehead touches the ground between his extended hands. He strikes his head upon the floor at least three times, proclaiming his humility, and often a dozen and sometimes twenty times the act will be repeated, according to his desire to show humility and repentance. He then returns to his knees and, setting back upon his heels, repeats a ritual. Next, arising to his feet, he holds his hands and concludes the prayer, repeating over and again the words, "There is no god but God, and Mohammed is his prophet."

This may be repeated once or a dozen or forty times, according to the piety of the worshiper, and he holds a string of beads in his hands to keep tally. His obligations are then accomplished, but he can go through the same ritual again as many times as he likes. The more frequently he does so the better Moslem he is. His piety is measured by the number of times he repeats his prayers, and like the Pharisees of the Scriptures, he prays in public places. No matter where he happens to be or by whom he is surrounded, whether at labor in the fields or selling goods in his shop or however he may be employed, the Moslem never forgets to pray when the voice of the muezzin reminds him that the hour for devotion has arrived.

NOT SO VERY GREEN.

The Florida Man Rather Evened Matters Up With the New Yorker.

When the young man from Florida came to live in New York, he woke up one morning last winter, and, going to the window, he looked out on what was to him a novel scene. It was a snow-storm, the first he had ever seen.

Jumping into his clothes, he ran into the street. He stooped and gathered handfuls of snow and threw them in the air. He jumped into a drift and sent it flying with his feet. He finally lay down and rolled in it, all the time shouting and laughing at the top of his voice.

One of the crowd which had gathered to watch his antics went up to him and told him how his mother used to cure fits and volunteered to try it on him.

"I haven't any fit," the young man said.

"What's the matter with you, then?" "Why, don't you see the snow?" "Yes, I see it. What of it? I have seen it before."

"Well, I haven't," said the Florida young man.

"What! You never saw snow before?" asked the astonished questioner. "Never. Seems strange to you, don't it?"

"It beats any sample of verandcy I ever run across."

"Oh, I don't know," mused the Florida cracker. "Did you ever see an alligator eating a nigger? No? Well, you are not so many after all. I have seen it many times." And, throwing a handful of snow down his shirt collar, he pursued his joyous gambols.—New York Mail and Express.

Quotation Marks.

Speaking of the use of quotation marks, the London Chronicle says:

But why all these inverted commas, "the silly trick of peppering pages with these uncouth bacilli?" You will find none of these bacilli in the Bible. Take this passage, chosen at random:

Now Jesus knew that they were desirous to ask him, and said unto them, Do ye inquire among yourselves of that I said, A little while, and ye shall not see me; and again, a little while, and ye shall see me?

The modern compositor would set that passage between two brackets of inverted commas, for it is a quote within a quote. But it is beautifully clear as it stands, and among all Biblical misunderstandings no one, we think, has been misled by the absence of an inverted comma.

A "Lot" of Land.

A Hartford lawyer is of the opinion that the term "lot" as applied to a parcel of land is an American product, not derived from any other uses of the word. He says: "I have been reading up some of the old histories of my state, of Long Island and other colonial sections recently, and I find that the term 'a lot of land' was originated in the colonies; that it is today considered an Americanism and stands apart from other uses of the word. It originated from the custom of dividing grants for townships, etc., into parcels of land and then numbering each parcel, putting the numbers into a hat or whatever was used and then having them drawn out by those who were to occupy the land. Each man took the parcel corresponding to his number, so his land came by lot literally, and hence the use of the term. This, I presume, is ancient history, but perhaps ancient enough to have been forgotten by most real estate dealers and other people who deal in land and not language."

GREWSOME INDIAN CHARM.

Its Loss Led the Cheyenne Braves to Leave the Warpath.

Of all the grewsome things in the National museum the necklace presented several years ago by Captain John G. Burke of the United States army stands unequalled as a monument to Indian cruelty and superstition. This necklace consists first of all of a long buckskin cord made by rolling up a large strip of skin and sewing it along the border so that throughout its entire length it will measure something over an inch in circumference, or about a third of an inch in diameter. This cylinder of buckskin is covered with beadwork so that no part of the skin is exposed. The beads are sewed on in rather tasteful patterns, the colors of which are white and blue. A thin buckskin string is attached to either end of this thick, bead incrustated cord, by means of which the cylinder is tied about the neck of the wearer.

Hanging from the underside of this necklace and running throughout its entire length are twelve human fingers and several small flint arrowheads of peculiar shape and workmanship attached by buckskin strings. In the middle of the necklace depend three small medicine bags made of the tanned hide or skin of human beings. These bags contain charm stones and other paraphernalia of the medicine man.

The human fingers, forming the most conspicuous feature of the necklace, are complete, having been cut off between the middle joint and the knuckle. They have been dried in such manner as to preserve their natural color, finger nails, etc., and look as fresh as though they had been removed only a few hours.

During General Crook's campaign against the Sioux and Cheyennes in 1876 the Fourth cavalry and a detachment of Indian scouts under Colonel R. C. Mackenzie surprised and stormed the chief town and principal stronghold of the Cheyennes. During or, rather, after this engagement one of the Indian scouts, Baptiste Pouvier, better known as Big Bat, entered the lodge of the chief medicine man of the deserted village, and among other things that the medicine man had overlooked in his hurried flight from the town the scout found this curious necklace. Big Bat gave the necklace to Colonel Burke, who later turned it over to a student of Indian religions and superstitions, and he in turn presented it to the National museum.

Subsequently something of the history of this necklace was learned. The fingers were those of famous enemies noted for their superior courage and bravery whom the Cheyennes had killed in battle during their various wars, while the human skin of which the medicine bags were made was also taken from the bodies of enemies slain in battle. The necklace is very old and was looked upon by the Cheyennes as a thing endowed with miraculous powers. Prior to its capture by Big Bat it had belonged to a famous medicine man of that tribe, who had never allowed any white man to lay eyes on it, and its loss put a very sudden and abrupt end to the Cheyenne war. The Cheyennes tried hard to get it back, offering a large sum of money and a great many horses for its return, but this was refused, and since then the Cheyennes have remained at peace with the whites.—Washington Post.

Faith.

A mother in one of the suburbs of New York, wishing to prepare the minds of her two children for a coming event of great importance, told them that if they would like to have a little brother or sister she thought if they prayed earnestly every night and morning God would send them one.

In due time the desired baby arrived, to the children's great delight and evidently to the strengthening of their faith, for the next day the father came into his wife's room, saying:

—The Shamokin school board at a meeting Monday night voted favorably to abolish corporal punishment. Superintendent of Public Schools Joseph Howarth said that the recommendation to strike out the corporal punishment rule was made at his suggestion. He said that "lamming" made boys vicious and that teachers could reach students better through the heart.

—Mr. William Miller, an old resident of Milesburg, died at the boro home on Thursday evening about 5 o'clock, aged about 65 years. He has been an invalid for many years and a great charge to his wife for a year past. He is survived by his wife but no children. The funeral services took place at his home on Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, conducted by the Evangelical minister. Interment in the Advent Church cemetery.

—Frequently campers find it hard to keep ice at hand, and the food suffers for the want of it. A common clay flower-pot may be made good use of in keeping the butter cool and firm. Place the pot over the plate of butter and wrap around it a cloth wet in cold water, sprinkling water over the outside of the cloth as it becomes dry. Milk will remain cool if treated in the same way.

—We have been requested to state that the No. 4, Howard Base Ball Club consisting of boys whose ages run from ten to thirteen years are very anxious to arrange for a game with Bellefonte boys of similar ages. The Howard boys are away up in the game and we think it would be lots of fun to have them come up some day and cross bats with some of our little chaps. Communications can be addressed to Charles DeHaas, Howard Pa.

—The large 86-ton passenger engine which Supt. Thomas purchased a short time ago as part of the equipment of the Bellefonte Central railroad arrived here on Thursday. It should have reached its destination sooner, but was so unfortunate as to be in a wreck and had to be sent back to the shops for repairs before being in condition to continue its journey. With the purchase of this engine the Bellefonte Central railroad will be able to handle passengers and freight without delay. Mr. Thomas expects to put it into service within a few days.

—John Riley, his wife and child were stranded in Altoona Wednesday and their baggage impounded for their fare from Philadelphia to Altoona, because they were traveling on a pass purchased from a scalper in New York city. The family had been in New York on a visit and purchased the pass to come home from a buncos steamer at a rate of $25, on which a rebate of $10 was to be given at Pittsburgh. The pass had been issued to G. A. Stocker and countersigned by J. A. Hutchinson. Riley got to Harrisburg all right on it, but the middle division conductor lifted it and impounded the baggage. Riley telegraphed to his home at Lucyville, Washington county, for funds but got no answer. Finally Poor Director Penney was appealed to and furnished the money to secure the release of the baggage and send the family on to Pittsburgh.

—It was the writer's privilege to take another delightful drive Thursday evening. This time it was behind the prancing steeds of Tom Beaver. Tom has a pair of horses that will take no person's dust, and as for speed they are simply out of sight. In going out the pike towards Axe Man he wanted to show what they could do, so telling us to take a tight grip on the seat and hold our hats, he let them out, and we might almost imagine being on the limited express, although he was handicapped by Will Larimer, who was ahead with one of his brag horses, and the road being rough he could not pass, so had to apply the air-brakes occasionally to allow William to get a little start. We were satisfied, however, with their gait and were convinced that it is the greatest team in this part of the country. Supt. F. H. Thomas and James H. Potter being with us he drove up to Rock View to make a call on Farmer J. Harris Hoy, where we were hospitably entertained by Mr. Hoy, his sister, Miss Anna, and Master Frederick Reynolds. After partaking of some delicious ice cream and cake we left their beautiful rural home, reaching Bellefonte at a respectable hour. Would just state that we are open for such engagements at any time.

Rheumatism

What is the use of telling the rheumatist that he feels as if his joints were being dislocated?

He knows that his sufferings are very much like the tortures of the rack.

What he wants to know is what will permanently cure his disease.

That, according to thousands of grateful testimonials, is

Hood's Sarsaparilla

It promptly neutralizes the acid in the blood on which the disease depends, completely eliminates it, and strengthens the system against its return. Try Hood's.

—Will Tyson, formerly P. R. R. agent and operator at Veil, has accepted a clerkship in the First National bank of Tyrone.

—The sale of the Curtin street residence of Robert Valentine failed to come to a successful termination on Saturday. It was put up for sale but $6400.00 was the highest price bid, so it was not knocked down. The sale was then postponed until August 24.

—An undertaker in a neighboring county was conducting a funeral at the home of a citizen. In arranging the seats for the pall-bearers he moved a music box from one side of the room to the other. In carrying the instrument he accidentally touched the lever that put the affair in motion and the large assembly in attendance at the last sad rites were startled and horrified to hear that rag-time strain, "I don't care if you never come back."

"I feel as if I should fly to pieces!" How often those words are on a woman's lips. They express to the uttermost the nerve racked condition of the body, which makes life a daily martyrdom.

If this condition had come suddenly it would have been unbearable. But the transition was gradual. A little more strain each day on the nerves. A little more drain each day of the vitality. Any woman would be glad to be rid of such a condition. Every woman tries to be rid of it. Thousands of such women have been cured by Dr. Pierce's treatment with his "Favorite Prescription" when local doctors had entirely failed to cure. "Favorite Prescription" contains no opium, cocaine or other narcotic.

United in Wedlock.

At the M. E. parsonage in Howard on Wednesday evening, July 9, at 8 o'clock, Miss Blanche E. Schenck, daughter of William Schenck, of Hunter's Run, and Clarence D. Johnson, of Blanchard, were united in marriage by the Rev. G. F. Boggs. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Fletcher, of Howard.

Mrs. Johnson is one of the most popular young women of Hunter's Run, is an ardent worker in the Epworth League and Sunday School besides being church organist for a number of years. Mr. Johnson is a son of N. H. Johnson, the popular undertaker at Blanchard. He is employed by the Beech Creek Brick and Tile Manufacturing company. Their many friends unite in wishing them a happy married life.

A Brakeman's Brave Act.

Charles Mitchell, a freight train brakeman, did a heroic act on Monday and saved the life of a young lady by his promptness and daring.

Miss Susan Schmock, aged 19 years, was walking on the railroad near West Milton, when a local freight train rounded the curve. The engineer saw the girl and blew the whistle, but he noticed that she failed to pay any attention to the alarm. The train was going too fast to stop, so Brakeman Mitchell climbed along the engine and reached out over the pilot and caught the girl by the hair and landed her on the cow-catcher just as the engine was about to strike her. The train was stopped and she was helped off badly scared, but none the worse for her hair-breadth escape.

Change of Ownership.

The Moore Photographic Studio, owned by Mr. A. C. Otis of Philadelphia, changed hands Wednesday, having been purchased by Messrs. Mallory and Taylor, who on August 1st will consolidate both establishments, and occupy the rooms in Crider's Exchange. This will give Bellefonte one of the largest and most finely equipped photographic studios in Pennsylvania, and as Mallory and Taylor are artists of acknowledged merit we have no doubt it will prove a successful business venture for them.

The Improved Order of Red Men.

Policeman Harry Miller is very much interested in the organization of a camp of the Improved Order of Red Men in this place. The camp will be installed on Thursday night, July 24th, and its meetings will be held in the Logan engine house assembly rooms.

It is expected now that there will be seventy-five Red Men in the wig-wam when the pipe is first passed. It is a fraternal, beneficial order and is very strong in the United States.

Need More Help.

Often the over-taxed organs of digestion cry out for help by dyspepsia's pains, nausea, dizziness, headaches, liver complaints, bowel disorders. Such troubles call for prompt use of Dr. King's New Life Pills. They are gentle, thorough and guaranteed to cure. 25c at Green's Pharmacy.

THE ANNUAL REPORT

Submitted by Superintendent David O. Etters

TO THE BELLEFONTE SCHOOL BOARD

An Interesting Paper Showing Some Excellent Data in regard to Our Public Schools.

VALUABLE SUGGESTIONS OFFERED

TO THE DIRECTORS OF THE BELLEFONTE SCHOOL DISTRICT, BELLEFONTE, PA.:

Gentlemen—I beg leave to submit the following report for the school year ending June 5th, 1902:

The total enrollment..... 837
" average attendance..... 607
" percentage of attendance..... 92
" number of tardy cases reported 1,558
" number of excuses offered for absence or tardiness..... 4,330
" number of Directors who visited the schools..... 7

It will be seen from the above that the average attendance was much below the total enrollment. This was due largely to the prevalence of sickness amongst the younger pupils, which continued throughout the year.

The schedule work did not differ materially from that of the preceding year, except that a place was made for additional work in practical English. In the High School this feature was enforced, as far as possible, with very satisfactory results. In fact, so far as concerned this particular school, an effort was made to combine practice with theory along all lines of study. Very much was done, too, to develop and strengthen a taste for good literature. Early in the school year the Board added to the library a most excellent lot of books of a miscellaneous character—history, fiction, science and letters. These books have been read quite generally by the whole school, while the standards along all lines claimed much attention from the older pupils.

I must say, however, that the degree of interest shown by some of the teachers in the attempt to develop the work in practical English, as suggested for the grade schools, was somewhat disappointing. Nothing short of a strong, united effort on the part of all teachers, more especially of the teachers of the High School and upper grades, will ever solve the vexed question of how to secure a more complete command of good English.

The time has arrived, too, when it seems imperative that steps be taken to strengthen the course of study for the High School, or to suffer the young who, on leaving school, to experience a handicap in the race for preferment, and those who may wish to enter higher institutions of learning directly from the High School will find the bars up against them in mathematics and modern languages. Nor should the Board abandon the idea of a commercial course as a part of the High School curriculum. This thought should be enforced just as soon as it shall seem practicable to do so. To insure a realization of this extended work will mean a bracing-up all along the line from the "B" Grammar grade up through the High School. It will demand closer application from the pupil; it will necessitate greater activity and additional labor for the teachers. And it might be in place to say here that no one who does not purpose falling into line to help out by lending his or her very best efforts to lift our standard straight up a notch should ask the Board's consideration.

You are called upon at this time to elect a successor to Miss Bella K. Rankin, primary teacher in the South Ward building. In Miss Rankin's retirement our corps of instructors loses a worthy member and the district a faithful teacher. Untiring of effort, rich in sympathy, devoted to her work and to her school, her place in the school room will be difficult to fill. And I am certain that I express the true sentiment of all concerned when I say that Miss Rankin carries with her as she goes out from us, the fullest appreciation of directors and patrons, the highest regard of her fellow-teachers, the enduring esteem of her little pupils and the hearty well wishes of all.

A few suggestions are here offered, and they are meant as suggestions only and are in no way intended as an attempt to dictate what your action shall be. In the selection of someone to fill the existing vacancy, and, in fact, in the selection of persons to fill any of the positions at your disposal, a single governing thought should assert itself—the best interests of the boys and girls of this community; for after all it is for these alone that you maintain the schools.

In the discharge of its duty, any Board will do well to keep in mind the fact that mental discipline is not the only desirable result which the schools should insure to the child who passes up through and out from them. Culture, in marked measure, should develop in the pupil as he moves from grade to grade—this as a direct result of constant contact with the accomplished and cultured teacher; and surely only the claims of such can weigh in the estimation of a Board in making selection of those who are to have a part in training the mind and shaping the destiny of man's choicest gift from God.

Intellectual qualification, general culture, your own personal knowledge concerning candidates, all should combine to assist you in a proper choice of those who are to serve the district as teachers during the coming school year. Where you may have to decide on some one of several applicants for the same grade of work, all other things being equal, your judgment will be well exercised if you select that one who possesses some knowledge of music and who can sing.

And lastly, you should keep in view the fact that if the High School course is to be extended so as to embrace solid geometry and the modern languages, then someone should be elected to the faculty who can teach the languages mentioned along with such other branches as may be apportioned.

In conclusion, I desire to thank the Board for the ready support and hearty co-operation extended me at all times in the discharge of my duty. My earnest hope is that the coming year may yield a vastly richer fruitage than has the one just passed.

Respectfully submitted,

DAVID O. ETTERS.

ONE COWSKIN.

An Instance of German Military Thrift and Red Tapeism.

An instance of military thrift and of a red tape system which is not peculiar to Germany comes from the Prussian war office. In 1896 the guards were breakfasting hurriedly. They had on the previous day fought the battle of Soor and had accomplished altogether a nine days' march. This was not the era of canned meats, and to each regiment had been allotted a certain number of cattle which had been killed, skinned and cooked, but while the men were still eating scraps came in with the news that the Austrians were near at hand.

The men got into marching order and in a few minutes were in rapid advance toward the enemy. The Grenadier guards, conspicuous always for their dispatch, hurried to such purpose that they failed to secure the skin of a cow which had been made over to them for ration.

When the official who was responsible for the value of the hide came to ask for it, it had to be reported missing. Inquiries were set on foot, evidence was collected, and a voluminous correspondence lasting fourteen or fifteen months failed to account for the skin.

There had been a cow. She had been made over to the guards. She had a hide. The hide was government property, representing a sum fixed by official tariff. The government must be credited with that sum. The hide was not forthcoming. Who should be responsible for its cash value?

It was at last decided that the colonel of the regiment should be held accountable, and a year and a half after the conclusion of the seven weeks' war he was requested by the war office to remit the sum of 3 thalers, the price of one cowskin lost by the Grenadier guards. When the sum was paid, the subject was at last officially dropped.

COSTLY ACCIDENTS.

A Lost Tin Mine and a Lead Mine's Bottomless Pit.

Immense plans which seemed about to be completed, but have been brought to disastrous failure at the last moment, are frequent enough in the history of industry.

London Answers tells the story of a tin mine in England which might have yielded a fortune but for a storm. With the finding of a new vein of ore running out toward the sea a new level was driven out below the water; then it was found that the lode bent upward too near the sea bottom for mining to be safely carried on. Undiscouraged, the owner borrowed money, built a sea wall to cut off the water, erected pumps and again went to work.

On the sixth day just as an enormous mass of rich ore was being tapped a gale came up, a ship was blown upon the wall, which went to pieces at once, and the sea drove the heavy stones in upon the thin roof of the mine. In a moment the workings were hopelessly flooded, and the owner was a ruined man.

A story equally tragic is told of the Speedwell lead mine in Derbyshire. Believing that a rich vein of ore existed in a nearby hill, the owner risked his entire capital to bore a tunnel 3,000 feet long into the heart of the mountain. Suddenly the mine broke through a wall of rock into a vast hidden cavern, through which flowed a stream of water.

They began to dump rock into the stream, and after 10,000 tons a bridge began to rise out of the darkness, and then their further progress was stopped. Month after month they toiled, and at last, after 40,000 tons in all had been cast into the cavern, they gave it up.

That narrow rift is known to this day as the Bottomless Pit.

Distant Neptune.

The period of man's whole history is not sufficient for an express train to traverse half the distance to Neptune from the earth. Thought warbles and falls in seeking to grasp such distances. It can scarcely comprehend 1,000,000 miles, and here are thousands of them. When we stand on that, the outermost of the planets, the very last sentinel of the outposts of the King, the very sun grows dim and small in the distance.

KING'S EVIL.

How Ignorance and Superstition go Hand in Hand.

A curious sight might have been seen in England a couple of centuries ago. At Whitehall or some other royal residence a little group of people would shrinkingly await the coming of the king, in order to be "touched for the evil." The specific "evil" was scrofula, and it was the popular belief that scrofula could be cured by the royal touch. Hence the common name for scrofula was King's Evil.

Nowadays we know that scrofula is a disease of the blood and that even were there magic in a kingly touch, no external treatment could cure scrofula. The medicine which cures scrofula must deal with the blood. It must be able to eradicate and eliminate the poisons which corrupt the blood and breed and feed disease. When the blood is cleansed, the pimples, blotches, boils and other eruptions disappear, ulcers and sores are healed and the flesh becomes sound and healthy.

THE RIGHT WAY

To cleanse the blood from scrofula is to choose that remedy which has cured thousands of people who suffered from scrofula in its most grievous forms.

"I am using a good many of your medicines in my practice," writes Dr. Joseph Pike, of Lost Springs, Marion Co., Kansas. "Ten years ago there was an emigration from Kansas to this country and there was a lady in the company who was badly affected with that dreadful disease, scrofula. Her mouth and throat were in an awful condition, and there were lumps on the outside, below the jaw, the size of a hen's egg. Other doctors had been called and they said it was a fatal case. I felt confident that none of my remedies would benefit her any. It came to my mind that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery was recommended for such cases, so I went to the drug store and bought one bottle and gave it to her to use as directed. Five bottles cured her and she is well to-day. She is married now and has three healthy children."

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery judged solely by the cures it has effected is without doubt the most powerful and most perfect blood purifying medicine of the century. It is a radical remedy. It goes to the root of the disease. Some preparations containing mineral poisons such as mercury are offered as cures for scrofula. These medicines only suppress the symptoms of disease for a while and give the skin a look of clearness, but after a time the suppressed disease like a smothered fire breaks out with a new violence.

It is the uniform testimony of those who have been cured of scrofulous diseases by the use of "Golden Medical Discovery," that the cure is permanent. In many instances the testimonial to the cure has not been offered until the lapse of several years, proving how thoroughly and lastingly the medicine had done its work.

No class of people are more grateful for the blood purifying power of the "Discovery" than women whose faces have been marked and marred by pimples and other eruptions. The smooth skin and clear complexion which come back when "Golden Medical Discovery" has swept the blood clean of its corrupting poisons, are a source of unalloyed delight to those who for years have suffered from their beauty marred by some form of eruptive disease. Beauty begins in the blood, and the first step to beauty is to cleanse the blood of the corrupting impurities which weaken the body and beset the flesh.

THE SCOURGE OF CIVILIZATION.

From half civilized or unsanitary countries come the plagues which decimate the teeming populations of the Orient. Sanitary science and medical skill have banished the plagues from among ourselves, but civilization has its own scourge in that its form of scrofula which attacks the lungs and is popularly known as consumption.

Plagues are not permanent. They appear and disappear again for years. Scrofula of the lungs or consumption is a permanent disease. Every day of every year it gathers in its victims; one-sixth of all deaths from disease being attributed to consumption. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures scrofula wherever it finds it. It eliminates the scrofulous poison from the blood and so the organs which are fed by blood are relieved from the scrofulous poisons which destroy them. Obsolete, deep-seated coughs, bronchitis, bleeding of the lungs and similar dangerous forms of disease are perfectly and permanently cured by "Golden Medical Discovery."

"Dr. Pierce's medicine has not only benefited me greatly but it has done wonders for my two sons," writes Mrs. M. Hartwick, of Demeter, Oswego Co., N. Y. "Both had scrofula. I have lost two daughters in less than five years with consumption and scrofula. My eldest son was taken two or three years ago with hemorrhage from the lungs. It troubled him for over a year. He took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and has not had a hemorrhage in over a year. My younger son had scrofulous sores on his neck, had two lances, but has not had any since he commenced to take your medicine."

ABSOLUTELY RELIABLE.

"Golden Medical Discovery" can be absolutely relied on as a safe and sure medicine for diseases caused by a scrofulous condition of the blood. It cures disease of skin and scalp, eczema, salt-rheum, tetter, scrofulous sores and swellings, as well as scrofula of the lungs and other diseases having their origin in a corrupt condition of the blood.

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is no other medicine "just as good" for the cure of scrofulous diseases.

Hats Off, Ladies.

Two weeks ago Rev. Wilford P. Shriner, D. D. pastor of the Methodist church at this place, requested the ladies of his congregation not to wear their hats at the church service hereafter, giving as his reason for doing so, that many of the congregation were unable to see the pastor, or for him to see them. Accordingly last Sabbath there was great interest manifested to see whether many would accede to his request. At the morning service the hats were worn, but in the evening, a large proportion of ladies, either removed them after entering the building, or wore none to church.

Dr. Shriner has made a move in the right direction, and we hope our other ministers will follow in the same line, unless they have good scriptural reasons for not doing so. The ladies who discarded their head gear, displayed a great deal of good, common sense, and their action will be commended by every male church goer. No one enjoys, or can appreciate to its full extent, a sermon, when not being able to see the preacher, as when they can follow him with their eyes, because gestures, the attitude of the body, and the general appearance of the speaker, carries with it great weight in a discourse, and to have this veiled by some one sitting in front of you with a huge hat on their head, detracts in a great degree from the proper appreciation of the sermon, and no good thinking woman will for a moment demur, in contributing to the pleasure or enjoyment of the services.

We write feelingly on this subject, for many times in our life we have twisted our necks and bodies into every conceivable contortion, in order to catch but a brief glance of the minister who is preaching.

Now in the theatre, or place of amusement, the wearing of hats by the ladies during the entertainment is not tolerated, and should any one be bold enough to try it, she is politely requested by the usher or often from the stage to remove it, and if she does not, the gallery gods soon make her life so miserable, that she is anxious to take it off as quickly as possible.

We know it is asking our ladies to make a great sacrifice, for some of their hats are exceedingly beautiful, besides being expensive, and gotten up principally for display. On the streets they are objects of admiration, but in church have often been the cause of many bad thoughts in the hearts of persons sitting immediately behind them.

Since this good movement has been inaugurated in our midst, let us sustain Dr. Shriner in his crusade for reform, and may it not be long until all the ladies attending church, will be considerate enough of the comfort of others, that they will not think of wearing their hats at any public gathering.

Vacation Days.

Vacation time is here and the children are fairly living out of doors. There could be no healthier place for them. You need only to guard against the accidents incidental to most open air sports. No remedy equals De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve for quickly stopping pain or removing danger of serious consequences. For cuts, scalds and wounds.

"I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve for sore cuts and bruises," says L. B. Johnson, Swift, Tex. "It is the best remedy on the market." Sure cure for piles and skin diseases. Beware of counterfeits. C. M. Parrish.

A. R. Bass, of Morgantown, Ind., had to get up ten or twelve times in the night and had severe backache and pains in the kidneys. Was cured by Foley's Kidney Cure. C. M. Parrish.

Mothers Always Keep it Handy.

"My mother suffered a long time from distressing pains and general ill health due primarily to indigestion," says L. W. Spalding, Verona, Mo. "Two years ago I got her to try Kodol. She grew better at once and, now, at the age of seventy-six, eats anything she wants, remarking that she fears no bad effects as she has her bottle of Kodol handy." Don't waste time doctoring symptoms. Go after the cause. If your stomach is sound, your health will be good, Kodol rests the stomach and strengthens the body by digesting your food. It is nature's own tonic. C. M. Parrish.

Two Bottles Cured Him.

"I was troubled with kidney complaint for about two years," writes A. H. Davis, of Mt. Sterling, Ia., but two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure effected a permanent cure." C. M. Parrish.

Kodol

Dyspepsia Cure

Digests what you Eat

People once thought that the only way to cure indigestion was to stop eating. The trouble with such treatment is, that to stop eating is to stop living. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure has changed the whole method of treating this complaint. It contains all the natural digestive fluids and digests all you eat without aid from the stomach, so you can eat all the good food you want and be cured of your trouble at the same time.

"I have been troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia for several years and often sat down to eat but had to give it up after eating only two bites. I used two bottles of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and am alright to-day. Cannot eat anything I want. W. L. Easton, Audubon, Iowa."

It can't help but do you good

JOHN O. MILLER

Local Department.

—Mrs. Dr. J. L. Selbert gave a six o'clock dinner Tuesday evening at which Doctor and Mrs. Albert E. Blackburn were the guests of honor.

—Miss Ella Twitmore favored the audience at the Methodist church Sunday morning with a delightful solo which was highly appreciated.

—The City restaurant, which has been conducted for some time past by James I. McClure, has changed hands, the new proprietor being Charles A. Hazel.

—The government has granted a pension of $12.00 per month to John Hudson, of Phillipsburg; and one of $10.00 per month to Uriah Eby, of Pleasant Gap.

—Frank Nagney has started work on his new residence on East High street. It will be a brick-cased house and of handsome design and a great credit to that part of town.

—J. A. Loken, a well known contractor of Phillipsburg Centre county, died at his home in that place Monday morning aged 73 years. He was quite well known in Bellefonte.

—Harris Olewine had a boat of three rounds with the "Palace" pony Monday. The pony got away from Harris in the first two rounds, but in the third and final round, Harris pulled himself together and rode off with flying colors.

—Work is being pushed on the repairs at the Fair grounds made necessary by last winter's flood and unless something unforeseen occurs everything will be in ship-shape in a short time and the annual county fair will positively be held this fall.

—Our town never looked more beautiful than at the present time, the foliage of the trees is at perfection, the lawns are like velvet and flowers are blooming profusely, we can truthfully say, "surely the lines have fallen unto us in pleasant places."

—Maurice Hazel is taking the place of his brother, Oliver, as driver for the Adams Express Company at this place, while the latter, who is a member of Company B, is soldiering at Gettysburg. Maurice is an energetic young man and fills the bill very acceptably.

—The funeral of Mrs. Hannah Crook took place Saturday morning at 8 o'clock. Services were held at the Housel residence conducted by Rev. T. W. Perks. The pallbearers were Geo. Confer, Calvin Gates, Foster Housel and Wm. Hampton. The remains were taken to Howard on the 9:28 train for interment.

—Times appear to be prosperous at the Bellefonte Steam Laundry, or else Mac stands in pretty well with the carriage makers and harness men, for Thursday he is out with his wagon painted and polished in the latest style, and a brain new set of harness in the bargain. We wonder if this means any advance in prices.

—The funeral of Miss Anna, daughter of Rev. J. W. Boal, whose remains were brought from Port Carbon, took place Thursday afternoon on the arrival of the 4:10 train. The pallbearers were Messrs. Fred Kurtz, William P. Humes, James Harris and Hammon Sechler. Rev. Dr. Laurie of the Presbyterian church officiated.

—The Star Course in Petrin Hall this winter will be the finest Course ever given to the Bellefonte public. Some of the best lectures, concerts and entertainments in the Lyceum field have been engaged, and while the Course tickets will be a trifle higher than last season the price paid for the talent engaged will be almost double and give entire satisfaction.

—The mid-year examination and ministerial institute of the Central Pennsylvania conference will be held in the Methodist Episcopal church at Bedford, about October 1. This is an important meeting and will be conducted by the board of examiners of the conference. It will command the presence of the most distinguished men of the conference.

—In the Public Ledger's news despatch from Gettysburg Monday there appears this item: "While on provost duty yesterday the men of Company C, of the First Regiment, rounded up a man from Bellefonte who was said to be impersonating an officer. Captain Nuss discovered his false identity, and he was turned over to the borough authorities and sent to the local jail."

—The following young ladies and gentlemen drove Thursday to spend the evening at the "House of Commons" near Curtin's Works. Misses Sarah Potter, Margaret Thomas, Elizabeth Gephart, Thomazine Potter, Messrs. Jim Furst, John Munson and Harold Lingle. This resort is becoming quite a rival to the "House of Lords" and is patronized principally by the younger element.

—Edward Lettzel, one of the helpers at the Nittany Furnace, was badly burned Saturday evening about the face and hands by the explosion of a torch which he carried in his hand. He was taken to the residence of his brother-in-law Albert Schad on Half Moon Hill where his injuries were attended to by Dr. Klump.
